

Stephanie Miller's "Sexy Liberal Comedy Tour" benefits Planned Parenthood in Michigan

Stephanie Miller, national progressive radio host, is on a nation-wide comedy tour dubbed the "Sexy Liberal Comedy Tour" and stopped at the Detroit Opera House with John Fuglesang and Aisha Tyler on August 20, 2011. As if having these hilarious, progressive comedians here in Michigan were not enough, Miller's show made plans to donate a portion of the proceeds to Planned Parenthood Advocates of Michigan!

Attendees stopped by Planned Parenthood Advocates of Michigan's table at the Opera House, watched the part stand-up comedy show, part panel discussion, and part town hall meeting, then were able to attend the after party hosted by progressive talk radio host Tony Trupiano. Miller, Fuglesang, and Tyler stopped by the after party to meet progressive Michiganders who came from all over the state to attend the show. They talked about the importance of Planned Parenthood and the vital services that Planned Parenthood provides to women and families across the nation. ■
